what is inchigo?

Facilitators, coaches and personal development specialists who support business through their common mission: to make profitable enterprise, social engagement and human development one and the same.

why we do it ?

To be profitable, meaningful and sustainable, for the greater good of all.

how we do it ?

by focusing on purpose, we help clients find where and how they can integrate human, social and economic value.

what we do ?

create the conditions for enquiry – space, time, energy and ideas - so that clients can explore self, love and purpose.

what we believe ?

In a rapidly changing and complex world, a sustainable business is one where all its stakeholders thrive. To be sustainable, profitable business, social engagement and human development must become fully integrated.

To pursue such integration, we believe we need to explore questions around what business 'is', the nature of its relationships, its purpose in the world, and how it grows and develops, through reflection and action. We call this: Love, Self, Purpose and Enquiry.

Rather than presenting fixed solutions, inchigo facilitates exploration by offering space, time, energy and ideas to bring about new ways of learning and developing.

We help business to expand awareness, embrace new perspectives and create practices that have a positive impact on all stakeholders.

inchigo works with individuals, teams, and organisations that are committed to engaging with such transformation.

inchigo is part of the OceanTree, a group of like-minded and like-hearted people with a common mission: to create a world that is profitable, sustainable and meaningful, for the greater good of all. Our aim is to expand awareness and adopt livelihoods that allow us, others and all to thrive.
